Based in Brooklyn, New York and Vermont

Brief biography

I am a painter, writer, and filmmaker. I have been living in Brooklyn for about 25 years, and now also spend part of my time in the Northeast Kingdom in Vermont. I have exhibited my work since 1990 in venues such as the Thomas Erben Gallery and Mayson Gallery in New York City, the 1708 Gallery in Richmond, Virginia, the Alice K. Rogers Gallery of St. John's University in Collegeville, Minnesota, and BCB Art in Hudson, New York. I studied film and art history at UMBC in Baltimore, earned an MA in Liberal Education from the Graduate Institute of St. John's College in Santa Fe, and an MFA from the Tyler School of Art in Rome and Philadelphia.
